PCT Again Offers Scholarships to Students

by Amy Linden

Placer Community Theater will once again be awarding an academic scholarship to area high school students, but this year PCT will extend the eligibility to include graduates of Colfax High and Del Oro High in addition to Placer High. The scholarship is open to a 2006 graduate who plans to major or minor in acting or technical theater at an accredited institution of higher learning.

Last year's scholarship recipient, Stefani Coggins of Auburn, received $500.00 to assist her in furthering her education at U.C. Davis.

Applicants must demonstrate active involvement in the drama program at their high school through participation in school-sponsored theatrical productions, either on stage or behind-the-scenes. Participation in other school and community activities, such as sports, clubs and volunteer experience will also be considered. Perhaps the most important element of the application packet, however, is the 250-word personal response essay.

The submission deadline for this year's scholarship application is April 7, 2006. PCT Scholarship Committee members are all Sacramento-area educators: Jaclyn Gardner, Amy Linden, Michael Mosier and Tamara Mosier.

Volunteers are always welcome to assist in the selection process. This is a great way to become involved in PCT and to see how many wonderful and accomplished young people live in our community!

If you are interested in participating on the scholarship committee, please contact Amy Linden at (530) 268-9962 or ablinden@nccn.net.
